Franchitti wins third Toronto Indy title

Scottish driver Dario Franchitti held off Graham Rahal on a late restart, then beat teammate Scott Dixon on the temporary street course at Exhibition Place while Ryan Hunter-Reay finished third. Franchitti previously won the Honda Indy Toronto in 2009 and 1999. He increased his lead atop the IZOD IndyCar points standings to 353 — 55 more than rival Will Power.

Bus arrival guessing game ends

Next-arrival-time system delayed due to number of bus stops — about 9,300 in all

For Toronto bus riders, the days of waiting by the curb are over.

Starting today, TTC customers will be able to access real-time, GPS-tracked bus arrival times online and via text message, as they already can for streetcars.

Bus arrival times will be updated on Nextbus.com, where the service became available for streetcars last year. Passengers can also send a text message with their individual bus stop number to receive a reply with the next vehicle's arrival time.

As with streetcar information, the city will make the data available to smartphone apps such as Rocket Radar and Next TTC — which can be programmed to deliver personalized information with one click for a one-time fee.

The text-messaging service will be available for free to all cellphone users until at least September, when the TTC commission will consider a staff proposal to charge users for texts.

That proposal would give users two free text messages per day, then charge 15 cents per subsequent text.

The stops won't have the number to text for updates immediately posted, as streetcar stops currently do, but a full list of stop numbers will be available on the TTC's website, he said.

Aykroyd caught 'racing to the race'

Canadian actor Dan Aykroyd, the grand marshal of the Honda Indy Toronto, said he was pulled over for speeding on his way to the race.

Aykroyd drew laughs when he said he had been stopped yesterday as he was "racing to the race."

"You know when you see these races, you want to get into your vehicles and drive home and you do it trying to imitate the driver. That won't be me this afternoon," said the 59-year-old actor, adding the police officer let him off with a warning.

The Ottawa native, who was an original cast member of Saturday Night Live and famous for movies such as Ghostbusters and The Blues Brothers, also proposed changing the traditional race intro "Gentlemen, start your engines" to "Drivers, start your engines."

Aykroyd is a member of the Order of Canada and has also been inducted into Canada's Walk of Fame for his contributions to the entertainment industry.

City staff could be shrinking

Speculation stirring Mayor Ford will announce buyout package today

As part of Mayor Rob Ford's mission to reduce the size and cost of government, a lucrative buyout package is in the works for senior city managers and staff.

The announcement could come as early as today, when Ford has scheduled a 10 a.m. news conference. The official reason is to announce the conclusion of the core service review, but there was widespread speculation at city hall that the mayor would also announce the early retirement deal.

Yesterday, five well-placed officials confirmed the administration is banking on the buyout to meet attrition targets and to set the tone for looming cuts to city services.

City manager Joe Pennachetti said he won't be able to offer details of the service review until later in the week. One source said plans are still being "finalized."

The buyout strategy would mirror one by the Toronto Police Board. The board is hoping 18 senior officers and civilian managers accept early retirement packages. It will mean $2.8 million in savings for the cash-strapped force. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Toronto by the names

What animal gave Bay Street its original name? Who is Christie Pits Park named after? A guide to the names of some famous Toronto places

When we visit some of the most iconic places in Toronto — Bloor Street, Bay Street, Christie Pits Park — the experience could be enhanced by knowing more about their names.

Not knowing about the spaces that surround us is "part of the general vagueness most of us are guilty of," says Allan Gould, co-author of the book Toronto Street Names.

Even though every name isn't the gateway to a romance or mystery, "it's hard seeing some of these names without wondering what the story is behind (them)," Gould says.

With that in mind, the Toronto Star takes you on a tour of some of the most well-known place names in Toronto — a city whose name, as it turns out, has more to do with fish than pigs. Read on — you will be the hit of your next dinner party.

Bay Street: The more unusual thing about Bay Street's name is what it morphed from. It was originally called Bear Street because, according to Dr. Henry Scadding, who is quoted in Gould's book, a bear ran out of the nearby woods and to escape its chasers "made for the water along this route." The name was later changed around 1800. The current name was coined for the small stretch that connected Queen Street to a bay in Toronto Harbour. Today's more superstitious Bay Street financiers are surely happy the original moniker didn't stick.

Christie Pits Park: Perhaps it should have been named Mr. Christie's Park. Yes, the famous downtown green space honours the iconic Canadian baker and entrepreneur William Mellis Christie, a.k.a., Mr. Christie, according to city archives. He moved to Canada from Scotland in 1948. Not long after his massive biscuit-making operation took up much of the area where George Brown College now sits. Mr. Christie College doesn't quite work.

Bloor Street: If you have ever enjoyed a beer on Bloor, the man it was named for may have been looking down with a smile. Joseph Bloore was one of the city's earliest brewers. He built his brewery in 1830 and when he sold it in 1843 bought land in what would become Yorkville. City historians are not sure why the 'e' was dropped when Tollgate Road was renamed Bloor Street in 1855.

Avenue Road: When you think about it, there's not much sense in naming a road "Avenue." But according to staff at city hall's survey and utility mapping department, an old legend suggests the name has nothing to do with the two obvious synonyms. As the story goes, an early team of surveyors was working its way along what's now Bloor Street. When the team of Scottish men got to where the road is located today, the leader said: "Let's 'ave a new road here."

Toronto

- There's actually some controversy behind the origin of the city's name. Though many historians say Toronto comes from the Huron toronton, "place of meetings," according to Natural Resources Canada, that's not where Toronto gets its name. It comes from the Mohawk, tkaronto, which means, "where there are trees standing in the water" and describes the large stakes used about 4,000 years ago to catch fish in weirs around Lake Simcoe, some 130 kilometres north of Toronto. Even if the name was meant for somewhere else, it sure beats Hogtown.

Power station a sweet deal for sugar firm

Sunbathers at Sugar Beach could soon have a power plant in their sights.

A Toronto-based power company is proposing to build a gas-fired cogeneration plant at Redpath Sugar on its 4.25-hectare industrial site in the heart of the city's newly revitalized waterfront.

The 45-megawatt facility would generate enough power to supply 36,000 homes with electricity when at full capacity, about five per cent of Toronto Hydro's 700,000 customers. Cogeneration is simultaneously generating electricity and useful heat.

"This is truly a neighbourhood-sized facility," said Scott Stevens of Northland Power Inc. He says the emissions will be a fraction of those produced by large electricity generators such as the 550-megawatt Portlands Energy Centre.

The $100-million proposed facility would replace an unused warehouse at the Redpath refinery, which is on the water at the foot of Jarvis Street.

Waterfront Toronto, the government agency at the heart of revitalizing the East Bayfront and West Don Lands, is interested in talking to the company about potential power uses for the waterfront community, says Michelle Noble, the agency's director of communications and marketing. The city has typically backed cogeneration and has put zoning in place in both waterfront communities to allow the use.

City to raise guard wire at bluffs

City parks staff will be raising the height of the guard wire along the Scarborough Bluffs after a 17-year-old boy fell to his death recently.

"There's a post and cable system there that blocks off where people should not go past," said Bill Harding, parks manager for Scarborough. "We're going to put an additional cable just to raise that up a bit, to make it a little bit harder to get over."

In the past few weeks, firefighters have been called out to the bluffs four times to rescue people who had strayed too close to the edge, fallen, or slipped and were stranded.

Somalia drought 'worst' crisis: UN

MOHAMED SHEIKH NOR/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ A woman and her child wait outside a ruined building in Mogadishu, Somalia, yesterday after fleeing from southern Somalia. Thousands of people have arrived in Mogadishu over the past two weeks seeking assistance and the number is increasing by the day, due to lack of water and food.

Up to 2,000 Somali refugees cross border into Ethiopia every day, United Nations refugee agency says

The head of the UN refugee agency said yesterday that drought-ridden Somalia is the "worst humanitarian disaster" in the world. Antonio Guterres spoke after meeting with refugees who endured unspeakable hardship to reach the world's largest refugee camp.

The Kenyan camp, Dadaab, is overflowing with tens of thousands of newly arrived refugees forced into the camp by the parched landscape in the region where Somalia, Ethiopia and Kenya meet. The World Food Program estimates that 10 million people already need humanitarian aid.

The UN Children's Fund estimates that more than two million children are malnourished and in need of lifesaving action.

Guterres, the UN High Commissioner for Refugees, who visited Dadaab yesterday appealed to the world to supply the "massive support" needed by thousands of refugees showing up at this camp every week. More than 380,000 refugees now live there.

Shared border

- Nomadic. The epicentre of the drought lies on the three-way border shared by Kenya, Ethiopia and Somalia, a nomadic region where families heavily depend on the health of their livestock. Uganda and Djibouti have also been hit.
- The Horn of Africa. The World Food Program said it expects 10 million people in the Horn of Africa to require food assistance. WFP currently provides food aid to six million people in East Africa.

Ahmadinejad the liberal in gender divide

Iran's political power struggles have brought no shortage of cutthroat intrigue with careers ruined, government officials arrested and even accusations of black magic.

And now this — firebrand President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad as the voice of liberal dissent.

That's the latest twist in the showdown between Ahmadinejad and Iran's ruling clerics. Ahmadinejad is now temporarily in the reformists' corner by opposing plans to segregate male and female students at Iranian universities.

"It is necessary to swiftly prevent these backward, shallow-minded actions," Ahmadinejad wrote in an order earlier this week addressed to members of his cabinet.

It also nudged the political dramas further into territory that's surprising even by Iran's roughneck standards, where potshots and bitter quarrels are common fare in parliament and elsewhere. This time, the battle is Ahmadinejad versus the theocracy that once backed him.

For months, the ruling Islamic system has increasingly chipped away at Ahmadinejad's power base. His perceived offence: Trying to expand the powers of the presidency to set policies and pick key government posts.

Search on for train crash survivors

Rescuers searched for survivors in the wreckage of a packed passenger express train that derailed in northern India yesterday afternoon, killing at least 31 people, while officials said a second train derailment hundreds of kilometres to the northeast appeared to have been caused by a remote-controlled bomb.

Rescuers were working to reach the second derailment, which occurred late last night in a rural area of Assam state, injuring at least 100.

Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh expressed "deep sorrow and shock" at the loss of lives.

Royals hobnob with Hollywood elite

Prince William and Kate's California weekend includes black-tie film industry soiree and polo charity match

Hollywood royalty mingled with the real thing as the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge spent a sun-splashed day on the polo fields of Santa Barbara County followed by a diamond-studded night amid movie glitterati at the midpoint of their tour of California.

Prince William wowed the crowd with four goals at his charity polo match, then he and the former Kate Middleton headed by helicopter to downtown Los Angeles for a black-tie film industry event that drew Nicole Kidman, Tom Hanks, Barbra Streisand, Jack Black and Jennifer Lopez, among many others.

Saturday night's soiree at the restored 1920s-era Belasco Theatre in downtown Los Angeles was organized by the British Academy of Film and Television Arts, of which William is president, to promote up-and-coming British talent in the industry.

The duchess wore a flowing lilac dress with white waistband by Alexander McQueen.

Fans cheered as they strode a red carpet and the couple responded by walking over and shaking a few hands.

"Before I start, I'd just like to thank Colin Firth for my opening line: I have a voice," William quipped in brief remarks to the star-studded audience, referring to Firth's role as King George VI in the acclaimed film The King's Speech.

The guests included executives of major studios and entertainment companies along with such luminaries as James Gandolfini, Don Cheadle, Blake Lively and Kristin Chenoweth.

Earlier, up the coast at Carpinteria near Santa Barbara, William led his team to a victory in the overall polo match at the Santa Barbara Polo & Racquet Club.

"My father, the Prince of Wales, and my brother, Harry, were as green as that grass outside when I told them I'd be here today," William told a reception where guests sipped champagne and whiskey.

"Catherine and I have had a busy few days — so the prospect of being able to let loose this afternoon is wonderful for me."

Royal flap

- A photograph in Saturday's Toronto Sun, capturing the precise moment a gust of wind lifted the Duchess of Cambridge's dress, is causing a stir online.
- The picture, only now coming to light, shows a flash of flesh as the hemline of Kate's yellow skirt gets tossed about in windy conditions shortly after the royal couple's arrival in Calgary.
- Other media outlets wrote about the so-called "wardrobe malfunction," but seemed to have published tamer pictures.
- When asked why the paper ran the photograph, Toronto Sun editor-in-chief James Wallace said the picture was "compelling and newsworthy."
- "We promised our readers news with edge and attitude they don't get elsewhere, and that's what we do every day," he wrote in an email to The Canadian Press.
- One woman called the decision "wholly classless" while another berated the Sun for "very bad taste."

William scores big at polo

Prince William starred Saturday in a charity polo match that brought the crowd pouring onto the field in the most spontaneous moment of the couple's visit to Southern California.

William scored four goals as his team went on to win the overall match. Spectators at the Santa Barbara Polo & Racquet Club rushed onto the field despite an announcer's pleas for them to return their seats. After stragglers were pushed back and decorum was restored, Kate presented each competitor a blue Tiffany box with a white ribbon, and a silver trophy to her husband's team.

The last player to the podium was William. When the crowd yelled, "Kiss!," she obliged and gave him a slight embrace and a kiss on each cheek.

Last stop of tour

The Duke and Duchess of Cambridge attended an employment fair in Culver City, Calif., aimed at finding jobs for veterans.

Yesterday's event was the last stop on William and Kate's first foreign tour, which saw them criss-cross Canada for nine days before coming to Southern California for a busy weekend.

After arriving at the fair and speaking with veterans, the duke and duchess helped prepare care packages for children of deployed service members.

Alberta Tory rival tips hat to PM

The Wildrose Alliance is trying to wrest power away from the PCs, who have been in office for 40 years

Prime Minister Stephen Harper and the leader of Alberta's right-of-centre opposition party stood shoulder-to-shoulder yesterday serving up pancakes and shoring up support.

Wildrose Alliance Leader Danielle Smith, who wants to be premier, thinks Harper and herself have more in common than the flapjacks they heaped onto the cardboard plates of voters at a Stampede breakfast nestled in the heart of the prime minister's Calgary Southwest riding.

"I think that the values the prime minister talks about is something very much the members of the Wildrose talk about as well and are interested in seeing in the provincial government," Smith told reporters.

"I think part of the reason why we have a division at the provincial level between Conservatives is we have a current provincial government that is severely off track."

Harper and Smith chatted frequently during the half-hour pancake and photo fest, posing for pictures and shaking hands.

Smith added the prime minister's wife helped on her campaign in 1998 when she was running for a school board seat in Calgary. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Right-of-centre

The Wildrose Alliance, the right-of-centre political rival to the ruling provincial Progressive Conservatives, was founded in 2008.

- It has four sitting members in the 83-seat legislature, but is expected to improve on that number in the next election.
- It is made up largely of disenchanted Conservatives and is committed to fiscal conservatism, balanced budgets and private landowner rights.

Charity workers earning top dollar: Analysis

Goodwill means good wages for thousands of Canadian charity workers.

An analysis of tax filings by The Canadian Press has found salaries often run well into six figures.

The Canada Revenue Agency keeps a database of all the country's registered charities, which now number around 85,000. Charities must disclose how much their 10 highest-paid workers take home.

There are around one million charity workers in Canada. The agency's database shows more than 6,000 of them earned more than $120,000 last year. A few hundred made more than $350,000.

Another 12,000 workers made between $80,000 and $120,000. And about 163,000 earned less than that.

Charities defend the high pay by saying they have to pay top dollar for the brightest talent.

▶ Ted Garrard, head of the Sick Kids Foundation.

Ted Garrard, head of the Sick Kids Foundation, said the group's board of directors sets the top salaries and reviews them every year.

"We are a large and complex organization," Garrard said. "We want to make sure that we attract qualified people to oversee and manage our various programs."

"If you really want those charities to have an impact and make a real difference, you're going to need to bring in the best people to work in that sector," said Marcel Lauziere of Imagine Canada, an advocacy group for Canadian charities. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Defining charity

The definition of a charity is murky. Not every registered group builds schools in poor parts of the world or aims to fight diseases.

- Many are Canadian hospitals, school boards, universities and colleges. These groups tend to pay top dollar to attract the best talent, which perhaps explains many of the six-figure salaries.

Canada to reject Palestinians' UN sovereignty bid

Canada is rejecting a Palestinian effort to win recognition at the United Nations as an independent state.

The move is not surprising given that the Harper government has forcefully highlighted its loyalty to Israel and the United States.

Burka law sparks vigorous debate

Muslim women would risk jail time by refusing to show faces to police under planned Australian law Critics call bill heavy-handed, unnecessary

Muslim women would have to remove veils and show their faces to police on request or risk a prison sentence under proposed new laws in Australia's most populous state that have drawn criticism as culturally insensitive.

A vigorous debate that the proposal has triggered reflects the cultural clashes being ignited by the growing influx of Muslim immigrants and the unease that visible symbols of Islam are causing in predominantly white Christian Australia since 1973 when the government relaxed its immigration policy.

Under the law proposed by the government of New South Wales, which includes Sydney, a woman who defies police by refusing to remove her face veil could be sentenced to a year in prison and fined 5,500 Australian dollars ($5,900).

The bill — to be voted on by the state parliament in August — has been condemned by civil libertarians and many Muslims as an overreaction to a traffic offence case involving a Muslim woman driver in a "niqab," or a veil that reveals only the eyes.

The government says the law would require motorists and criminal suspects to remove any head coverings so that police can identify them.

Sydney's bestselling The Daily Telegraph newspaper declared the proposal "the world's toughest burka laws." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boycott bill creates more tension in Israel

Bill is latest effort of mostly hawkish Israeli circles to restrict domestic dissent ◗ Dovish sectors of society denounce such moves as anti-democratic

AHMAD GHARABLI/AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE

▶ Israeli activists demonstrate yesterday against the suggested "boycott law" in front of the justice ministry in east Jerusalem. Israel's Knesset parliament is expected to approve a bill today outlining penalties against individuals and organizations calling for boycotting Jewish settlements in the West Bank, local media reported.

Israeli backers of a bill that would punish people for boycotting West Bank settlements said yesterday they will push forward with the proposal, despite accusations that it's an undemocractic slap at freedom of speech.

In recent years, settlement opponents in Israel have joined boycotts of products made in the settlements. Palestinians and most of the international community say settlements are illegal because they are built on war-won land. Palestinians want the West Bank for their future state.

The local initiatives have angered settlers and their powerful political patrons. The bill stipulates that any Israeli individual or organization that sponsors a "geographically based boycott" could be sued for damages in a civil court by the party injured in the boycott call.

A final vote was set for today, but legislator Yohanan Plesner, an opponent of the bill, said he asked the parliament's legal adviser to delay it and would receive an answer this morning.

Supporters say the bill is meant to counter perceived attempts to delegitimize Israel.

Other efforts to curb domestic dissent include, for example, some hard-line lawmakers calling for a cutoff of state funds to theatres whose actors refused to appear in settlements.

Israel expels 36 activists, 82 still in jail

"Israel will continue to frustrate provocations and attempts to break through our borders, whether by land, sea or air."
ISRAELI PRIME MINISTER BENJAMIN NETANYAHU

Israel yesterday expelled 36 foreign pro-Palestinian activists who were jailed over the weekend after being denied entry into the country, and said dozens of remaining detainees would be deported in coming days.

Interior ministry spokeswoman Sabine Haddad said 13 Germans, 22 Belgians and a Spanish activist were placed on two flights yesterday.

The timetable for expelling the 82 remaining detainees will depend on foreign airlines' ability to fly the activists home, said Haddad, but Israel hoped to do so within two days. "The point is to fly them all out as quickly as possible, not to hold them," she said.

The activists were among hundreds who had planned to fly to Israel en route to the West Bank over the weekend to display solidarity with the Palestinian quest for independence.

Murdoch takes charge of U.K. hacking crisis

Meets with News International's CEO Rebekah Brooks, who led tabloid at height of its ethical lapses

Rupert Murdoch touched down in London yesterday to take charge of his media empire's phone-hacking crisis as his bestselling Sunday tabloid published its last edition.

The scrapping of the 168-year-old News of the World has not tempered British anger over improprieties by journalists working for Murdoch, and his $19-billion deal to take full control of satellite broadcaster British Sky Broadcasting remains in jeopardy.

News International's chief executive, Rebekah Brooks, who led News of the World when its reporters committed some of the most egregious ethical lapses, insists she had no knowledge of wrongdoing. The 80-year-old News Corp. CEO has publicly backed Brooks.

In its last edition yesterday, the paper issued a full-page apology.

"We praised high standards, we demanded high standards but … some who worked for us, or in our name, fell shamefully short of those standards," the editorial read. "Quite simply, we lost our way."

Some of the 200 journalists being laid off from News of the World appeared to sneak in their own message to Brooks, who kept her job.

Clues in one crossword puzzle included "Brook," "stink," "catastrophe" and "criminal enterprise."

▶ Toronto actor David Amito knows how to woo the ladies.

TAKING TO THE STAGE TO BARE HIS SOUL

URBAN COMPASS

LIA GRAINGER
METRO TORONTO

"There was Sophie, there was Sandra, there was Anna," says Toronto actor David Amito. He is seated at a candlelit table for two, only his date on this particular evening is a Toronto Fringe Festival audience. People have come to the Solo Room at the Bathurst Street Theatre to see Amito's one-man play, Every Woman I Slept With Before I Met You, eager to laugh as he describes in excruciating detail his near-complete, real-life romantic and sexual history.

Why would anyone do such a thing?

Well, last year, Amito fell in love, and like so many theatrical types, when Amito fell, he fell hard. But then, as wild and passionate whirlwind romances between earnest creative types are oft wont to do, things soured, and then, three months ago, things fell apart.

But for Amito, it was far from over. You see, Amito is a hopeless romantic — the kind of slightly hapless 31-year-old that still believes in questing after a woman. The sort of guy who would gallop through Kensington Market on his trusty steed and sweep the lady off her feet — if he had a steed or any horseback-riding experience.

But Amito had neither of those. What he did have was a Toronto Fringe Festival play that he knew his ex-girlfriend would be attending. And so he decided to devote this hour of creative expression to winning the lady back.

"I'll bare my soul to her, and to the city of Toronto," said Amito, munching on a caprese salad at John's Italian Café on Baldwin Street. "I'll use this play to tell her everything about every woman I've ever been with."

For some reason, Amito believes an explicit description of his past sex life is the perfect way to win back a woman. He has difficulty explaining why.

Together with director A.J. Bond, Amito has created a comical if at times disturbingly honest reflection on the romantic and sexual conquests of a man who clearly still believes in true love.

At the time of printing, the girlfriend who inspired this particular conquest had yet to see the play, which means she will be attending this week — the show closes July 17. By Sunday, Amito will know if this latest quest will end in victory or crushing defeat, and he has his fingers crossed that true love conquers all.

Worth mentioning

DVUR KRALOVE, Czech Republic. She's the last northern white rhinoceros on view anywhere in Europe — but zookeepers are hoping lonely Nabire will find solace with a southern rhino 11 years her senior.

Another northern white — Nesari — died here in her sleep in May at age 39, further reducing the world's dwindling population of the critically endangered animal.

To help her cope with the loss of Nesari, keepers have decided to team up 27-year-old Nabire with a new partner, 38-year-old male Natal. Natal is a southern white, another rhino subspecies.

They were seen snuggling, lazing in the sun and eating and sleeping in their enclosure late last week.

With rhino horns considered a cure for everything from colds and fevers to high blood pressure, impotence and other ailments, poachers have decimated rhino populations in Africa and elsewhere.

The northern white rhino is the most highly endangered mega-vertebrate on Earth.

An 11-year-old boy in Brazil's northeastern city of Mossoro is drawing attention with his purportedly magnet-like qualities.

The Globo TV network has broadcast images of Paulo David Amorim demonstrating how forks, knives, scissors, cooking pans, cameras and other metal objects seem drawn to his body and remain stuck on his chest, stomach and back.

The boy's father told Globo that he decided to test his son after learning of a boy in Croatia with a similar ability. Junior Amorim said he was surprised to find "a fork and knife stuck to his body."

The youth said classmates call him "magnet boy."

Dr. Dix-Sept Rosado Sobrinho told Globo it is the first time in his 30-year career that he has seen a case like this.

Harry's spell lingers on

An academic weighs in on the Potter cult

Thousands of Harry Potter fans are camped out at London's Trafalgar Square last week for a chance to see the premiere of the final Harry Potter movie. How did a book character manage to get such a following? Metro spoke with Michael Drout, Professor of English at Wheaton College and an expert on fantasy literature.

The Narnia series and the Lord of the Rings are excellent books. What makes people go gaga over Harry Potter?
Fantasy has become popular anyway, but the drawback with Tolkien and C.S. Lewis is that they take themselves too seriously. The fate of the universe is always at stake. J.K. Rowling took fantasy and inserted humour. She's also very good at creating characters. Her characters are not the cardboard characters you usually get in fantasy.

But why do people relate to Harry Potter?
He's literally a Cinderella story, and he taps into the idea that anyone can be the most important person in the universe. He's also moral compass of sorts: he's loyal and he knows what's right and wrong. And like all fantasy, the Harry Potter books put readers into a position where they can change the world. Also, Rowling doesn't get enough credit for being a decent writer. A typical fantasy writer invents three-four different languages and has 20-page explanations for everything. In Harry Potter readers learn how things work because Harry himself is learning. METRO

▶ "Harry Potter has been a force for good," says Professor Michael Drout. "He has gotten young people reading and thinking about good and evil."

The first Harry Potter film came out ten years ago
Here's what's changed since The Sorcerer's Stone

THE PLOT

Then: A young boy discovers a world of magic at Hogwarts, his eyes wide and full of wonder—until the dark lord Voldemort returns to take revenge. "Stone" was directed by the kid-friendly Chris "Home Alone" Columbus.

Now: All out war. Harry must now defend Hogwarts and everyone good from old Voldie. The final installments were directed by David Yates, known for adult dramas.

THE MENTOR

Then: Professor Dumbledore was originally played by Richard Harris, who died in 2002 after filming the second "Potter" film.

Now: Michael Gambon inherits Dumbledore's beard. Later, author J.K. Rowling reveals the character is gay.

SEX!

Then: None in the first film. Unless you count Hagrid's love of animals.

Now: Ron and Hermione enjoy a full-on snog. And the final scene—spoiler alert! —should prove they had intercourse. Harry, too. Not all together.

THE NEMESIS

Then: Voldemort is seen only briefly in the first film, growing out of the head of Professor Quirrell in a surprise ending.

Now: Voldemort (played by Ralph Fiennes) is not shy anymore. Who can blame him, with those good looks.

THE WORLDWIDE BOX OFFICE

Beckhams have a baby girl

The family have yet to announce a name for their new addition

David Beckham's spokesman said the soccer star's wife Victoria has given birth to a healthy baby girl Sunday.

Simon Oliveira said the celebrity couple is "delighted to announce the birth of their daughter."

"Happy and healthy she arrived at 7.55 am this morning at Cedars Sinai hospital in Los Angeles and weighed 7lbs 10oz," Oliveira posted on Twitter, adding the Beckhams' three sons "are excited to welcome their baby sister to the family."

The Beckhams, who married in 1999, already have three boys: Brooklyn, 11, Romeo, 8, and Cruz, 5.

The family have yet to announce a name for the little girl, who was born the morning after Beckham scored directly from a corner kick to give the Los Angeles Galaxy a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Fire.

Bringing sexy back for Biel

Pretty pair are giving it another shot, says source

GETTY IMAGES

Jessica Biel and Justin Timberlake dated for four years.

While he's been making headlines with several famous beauties including Scarlett Johansson and Olivia Wilde since breaking up with Jessica Biel, Justin Timberlake reportedly isn't over his ex.

And sources tell Us Weekly that the pair, who split up after four years in March, are quietly giving their relationship another go.

"They have been talking the whole time and decided to give it another shot," a source says.

"Jessica really wanted to get back together with him and Justin realized single life is not what it's cracked up to be." METRO

Stewart is not impressed

Kristen Stewart reportedly wants off the list of actresses being considered to play Casey Anthony in any movie about the recently acquitted Florida woman.

"Her people are really annoyed about the Casey Anthony comparisons," a source tells Us Weekly.

"She would never for no amount of money portray that girl. It's grossing her out. All those entertainment shows are doing polls and what not and her people just want it to stop." METRO

Two speedy meals

The authors of the cookbooks Time for Dinner and The Sneaky Chef provide three recipes to feed your family... naturally Skip the fast food and feel good about these choices

#1. Please-Everyone Pizzas

4 portions
Prep time: 15 min.
Total time: 45 min

From Time for Dinner by Pilar Guzmán, Jenny Rosenstrach and Alanna Stang.

Take orders from the kids before the food goes in the oven and you minimize potential tableside protests. By changing toppings every few inches, this faster-than-Domino's version becomes a meal kids and adults can get excited about.

Ingredients:

- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 sprinkle flour
- 1 12-to-16-ounce ball prepared pizza dough
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 large zucchini, shredded
- Salt and pepper
- 1 cup marinara sauce
- 1 ball fresh mozzarella, sliced into thin rounds

Preparation:

1. Preheat oven to 400 degrees F.
2. Brush half of the olive oil onto a large backing sheet and sprinkle it with flour.
3. Stretch the pizza dough into a 15-by-8-inch rectangle.
4. Sauté the onion and zucchini in the remaining olive oil until softened. Season with the salt and pepper.
5. Top part of the dough with the marinara sauce and fresh mozzarella, and part of it with your zucchini topping.
6. Bake pie until crust has browned and the cheese has melted, 25 to 30 minutes. Slice and serve.

#2. Mac 'n' Cheese

Ingredients:

- 1/2 pound macaroni
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/4 to 1/2 cup White Puree (see below)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups grated low-fat Colby or cheddar cheese

Preparation:

1. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Butter a 9-inch square baking pan.
2. Bring pot of salted water to boil over high heat. Add macaroni and cook according to the package directions, until firm and slightly undercooked. Drain; set aside.
3. In bowl, whisk milk with the White Puree, salt.
4. Put half of macaroni into baking pan and top with half the cheddar (or Colby) cheese. Then layer with the rest of the macaroni, and pour milk mix over the top, finishing with the last of the cheese on top.

White Puree

- 2 cups cauliflower florets
- 2 medium zucchini, peeled and roughly chopped
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 3–4 tablespoons water

- Steam cauliflower in steamer over 2 inches of water, using tightly-covered pot, for 12 mins.
- Pulse raw peeled zucchini with lemon juice. Drain cooked cauliflower. Add it to pulsed zucchini in bowl of food processor with two tbsp of water. Puree until smooth. Stop occasionally and push contents from top to bottom. If necessary, add rest of water to make smooth puree.

A unique salad combo

Combining corn, tomato and melon may sound a little strange, but — when done right — it can be delicious The flavours balance each other

For Nate Appleman, a great salad is about creating balance. "That balance changes throughout the year and usually depends on what is in season and the weather outside," said Appleman, a star of Food Network's The Next Iron Chef and chef for Chipotle Mexican Grill.

His inspiration starts when shopping. "I pick one central ingredient and build from there, keeping in mind a balance of crisp, sweet, salty, and sour," he said.

Preparation:

1. Dressing: In blender, combine olive oil, vinegar, jalapeno and oregano. Purée until mostly smooth. Season with salt, then set aside.
2. To assemble, first stand each ear of corn on cutting board on wide end. Use knife to saw down cobs to remove kernels.
3. In bowl, toss together corn kernels, tomatoes, cantaloupe, radishes, cucumber and red onion. Drizzle dressing over salad, then toss again to coat evenly. Crumble feta cheese over salad.

Getting back to nature

For 50 words or less, you could find yourself on a dream trip for two

BEN KNIGHT
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Imagine if 50 words on Facebook could turn into the Canadian wilderness trip of a lifetime.

Imagine no more. In honour of Parks Canada's 100th birthday, the Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society (CPAWS) has launched the Parks Dream Contest: What's on your Bucket List?

"We launched the contest to help Canadians learn about the amazing opportunities that are offered in our National Parks," says Holly Postelthwaite, national PR coordinator for CPAWS.

"We are really trying to reach the young, urban Facebook crowd, and make them realize the amazing experiences that are waiting for them in Canada's wilderness."

You certainly don't have to be young or urban to enter — but you do need to be on Facebook.

"We wanted to make it fun, easy and simple," Postelthwaite enthuses. "You just sign in with your Facebook account, and then in 50 words or less, share a dream experience you wish to have — or have already had — in one of Canada's National Parks."

The grand prize is spectacular — a $10,000 dream trip for two to the Nahanni, courtesy of Nahanni River Adventures — will all air fare and accommodations included.

▶ The massive, fjord-like canyons of Gros Morne National Park in Newfoundland and Labrador are one of the great sights in Canada. The park is one of three in that province

And if the word 'Nahanni' conjures up images of thundering, dangerous white water and that's not what you're into — fear not.

"You don't have to be an expert canoeist," she adds. "They will customize the experience based on your paddling experience. If you're an extreme canoeist, they'll choose and extreme route. If you've never paddled a canoe in your life, they'll take care of you as well."

Other prizes include Mountain Equipment Co-op shopping sprees and gift cards — plus year-long passes to all the National Parks.

"We planned this contest in hopes of assembling the top 100 dream experiences to be had in Canada's National Parks. People think of going to Europe or Cancun on their vacations, so we wanted to really show them what's waiting for them in their own back yard."

ISTOCK

▶ Always make sure to check your emails for spelling mistakes. Heck, use a magnifying glass if you need it.

Don't let your thumbs get in the way of your career

Watch your email etiquette, career experts warn

DREW HINSHAW
METRO WORLD NEWS
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

In the age of auto-spell check, it's tempting to thumb out double-time memos with no regard for the art of spelling. Still, career counsellors warn, your lack of SMS politeness could carry a cost.

"People are starting to move away from emails and are losing the art of putting together a complete couple of sentences," career coach Sue Thompson bemoans.

"But you need to consider to whom are you writing."

"It's all about building rapport," concurs Shirin Khamisa, founder of Careers By Design.

If your emails are responded to with snappish, unpunctuated replies — no "Hey, how are you," no "Nice to hear from you" — then you might, she suggests, keep your correspondence curt.

"But if it's a person who has a more personal touch, then I would reciprocate," she adds.

"Those niceties are very important in building relationships, even online — and especially online — because we need that glue to hold us together."

Older workers, Thompson notes, can be made uncomfortable by an overload of web 3.0 abbreviations.

"Baby boomers are going to expect a fairly concise, but formal email," she says. And they'll likely place a greater importance on spelling, she adds.

"Some people will really consider your spelling, whether you know the difference between your and you're and its and it's," she says.

"Just respect the person to whom you're writing. That's what etiquette is."

Get to the point

- Don't get so lost in digital decorum that you never get to the point, cautions Shirin Khamisa, founder of Careers By Design. "Be very clear about action steps," she advises. "Keep those in the top of the email so they don't get lost. Put them in the subject line. Present things the way you'd want them presented to you."
- Put a face to a name
If a picture's worth 1,000 words, then a low-resolution headshot can't hurt, Khamisa offers. "Attach a small photo in your signature," she says. "The next time you meet, you'll notice a difference in how you're received."

Man of action has Heaps of 'passion'

Entrepreneur Frank Heaps is still going strong at 69

HANDOUT

▶ Among other things, Frank Heaps is the current president of Iceberg Vodka in Canada.

TURNING POINT

TERESA KRUZE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

"I'm not good at sitting on beaches," Frank Heaps tells me from his Toronto office. "I'm going to develop them."

I learn that they are not idle words. Frank Heaps is a man of action and at the age of 69, his entrepreneurial spirit is still driving him forward. Heaps pioneered the micro-brewing craze in Canada when he started Upper Canada Brewing Company in 1984.

"I quit my job, put a mortgage on the family home, wrote a business plan, raised capital and then struggled like hell for five years until it caught fire."

Heaps sold the successful brewery 10 years later and thought about retirement.

"I tried watercolour, golf, bagpipe lessons, pottery classes — nothing appealed to me."

It was back to the beach and Heaps began developing a waterfront property in St. Lucia. He is also the current president of Iceberg Vodka in Canada.

"You've got to have passion. You also have to motivate yourself because if you can't do that, you're not going to motivate the people around you."

Beer, vodka and offshore property development. I can hardly wait to see what Frank Heaps does next.

Heaps of advice

Frank Heaps on starting a new business

- Find something you're passionate about.
- Check out the competition.
- Do your research. Then write a spectacular business plan.
- Demonstrate to yourself and other people that you know what you're talking about.
- Get ready for a challenging ride.

It's July already; Do you have a job?

Youth-focused centres help unemployed battle the summer job blues

HANDOUT

▶ University of British Columbia career educator Angela Pau gives a student feedback on their resumé and cover letter at a resumé clinic.

School's out, summer's here and the living should be easy. But for some young people there's a perplexing reality that gnaws at the pit of their stomachs — they're jobless, and it's already July.

Laura McEwan is one of those desperately seeking summer employment.

The 17-year-old has been hunting for over a month but has been turned away by employers who say they've already completed their summer hiring or have an abundance of more experienced applicants.

"It's really frustrating not knowing where to go from here and to keep trying to stay positive," said McEwan.

The warmer months can come to resemble a ticking time bomb for those who haven't been able to lock down a summer gig. The latest youth employment numbers don't offer much solace — despite the overall unemployment rate falling to its lowest level in May, the jobless rate for those aged 15 to 24 was 13.9 per cent.

Nonetheless, a few youth-centric organizations are trying to ease the job anxiety.

Youth Employment Services is where McEwan sought help.

The Toronto-based non-profit offers job counselling, training and work placement opportunities as well as a special summer job service.

The organization's key pointer when it comes to summer employment? Start early.

"A young person has to be very dedicated. They should be looking for their job back in May. A lot of people don't think of doing that," said president Nancy Schaefer.

"The common complaint is 'where's the job?'"

Schaefer explained that many youth who use employment assistance services quickly learn just how proactive they need to be when it comes to the job hunt. Many employers advertise well before April and there are even those that recruit in late fall.

But for those late bloomers still hoping for work this summer, Schaefer offers some encouragement.

"We would never tell a young person that it's hopeless," she said, adding that those who aren't picky can typically find some sort of short-term seasonal work if they look hard enough.

For those with a certain amount of drive, the organization even helps young entrepreneurs start their own summer business.

"Young people don't know that there are services available in their communities," said Schaefer.

"If they've taken that step to reach out and get help, then we reward them."

If all else fails ...

- If a young person just isn't able to land a job this summer, the University of British Columbia's Career Services office has some advice.
- "Create great professional stories," said John Horn, the centre's associate director of career development.
- Whether it's a volunteer experience, or a travel opportunity, Horn advises developing a collection of narratives that help build credibility as a well-rounded professional.
- Those stories can find a place on a resumé or in a job interview and could help rank one applicant higher than another.

Jays on a roll going into break

Jose Bautista hit a two-run double to help the Toronto Blue Jays defeat the Cleveland Indians 7-1 yesterday and head to the all-star break with a three-game winning streak.

Brett Cecil (2-4) gave up one unearned run over six innings for his first win in three starts since being recalled June 30 from the minors. The left-hander allowed six hits and walked three. He struck out six, got out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning, and stranded nine runners overall.

Eric Thames' two-run homer in a five-run third off Carlos Carrasco (8-6) put the Blue Jays ahead.

Toronto moved within two games of .500 and have Bautista going to the all-star game as baseball's home run leader with 31 — along with 65 RBIs and a .334 average.

Cleveland has lost four of six and despite a lineup hit hard by injuries, remain in a battle with Detroit for the AL Central lead.

It was the second consecutive rough outing for Carrasco following a 7-2 stretch over nine starts. The Blue Jays scored five runs on seven hits in three innings against him.

Franchitti comes out on top of the heap

IndyCar leader survives multiple crashes to win Honda Indy Toronto

It took a lot of skill and a little luck for Dario Franchitti, but he was able to avoid a crash-filled race and a challenge by a rival to win his third title on the 25th anniversary of the Honda Indy Toronto.

Collisions knocked out Will Power and several other drivers at Exhibition Place as Franchitti earned his fourth IndyCar victory of the season, giving the Scottish driver a little breathing room atop the IZOD series points standings.

"That was a wild one, wasn't it?" he said. "That was an absolute wild one."

"I'm always racing clean, he's always racing dirty ... He never gets a penalty from IndyCar. Just not right."

DRIVER WILL POWER IN AN INTERVIEW WITH VERSUS NETWORK ON HONDA INDY TORONTO WINNER DARIO FRANCHITTI

Franchitti took the checkered flag on the 85-lap, 1.75-mile street course with Target Chip Ganassi Racing teammate Scott Dixon in second and Ryan Hunter-Reay coming in third in the 26-car field. Franchitti has a 55-point lead on Power in the standings.

The two rivals battled throughout the race until Franchitti nudged Power into a spin on the 57th lap that stalled the Australian driver's No. 12 Team Penske car. Franchitti kept going and stayed with the leaders while Power had to try to recover from 18th.

There was initially confusion about whether or not Franchitti's team had repealed a drive-through penalty, which would have cost Franchitti valuable position in the pack, but race officials later said the incident had been reviewed and no penalty had been handed out.

That incensed Power, whose day was done nine laps later after getting banged into the wall from behind by Alex Tagliani of Lachenaie, Que. Power finished 24th.

Tagliani was launched into the air and out of the race by Danica Patrick on the 72nd lap, while a close battle between Toronto natives James Hinchcliffe and Paul Tracy resulted in a flat tire for Hinchcliffe and a damaged front wing for Tracy.

Car crashes into Tour rider

Spain's Luis Leon Sanchez won the ninth stage of the Tour de France on a wild day of crashes while France's Thomas Voeckler finished second to take the overall lead from Norway's Thor Hushovd.

The day was marred when a car struck Spain's Juan Antonio Flecha, who was part of a five-man breakaway group. Flecha took down Dutchman Johnny Hoogerland with him as he flew sideways off his saddle. Both riders got up and kept riding.

Organizers said they have excluded the car that caused the crash from the rest of the race.

The three remaining riders contested the final sprint.
